

Sin(x) graph

All 3 graphs are drawn at the same logical position on the page. The difference between them is the logical unit that has been used for drawing each graph. Each logical unit performed a different mapping between the logical position and the physical position on the page.

